BERLIN, April 14.—German and Italian mechanized forces today dealt a new blow to British defenders in Egypt by sweeping eastward to effect the capture of Sollum and nearby Fort Capuzzo, according to an-

Cairo, April 14.—Heavy fighting raged around Sollum
in northwestern Egypt
today after German and Italian armored forces smashed across the Egyptian border in a lightning drive from Libya.

The Axis forces earlier detoured around the British-held Libyan port of Tobruk and captured the Libyan port of Bardia near the Egyptian frontier.

Two Battles
Latest reports said two heavy engagements were in progress, one at Sollum about 10 miles inside Egypt and the other at Tobruk, where British forces battled to prevent complete encirclement of the port
by Italian and German troops.

Reports to Cairo said the British

Russia And Japan In Non-Aggression Pact

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, April 14.—The new Russo-Japanese non-aggression treaty, signed in the Kremlin in the presence of Josef Stalin yesterday afternoon, will give Japan virtually a free hand for southward expansion, informed sources predicted today.

They said the friendship pact also will permit the U.S.S.R. to devote more attention to her westward frontiers in view of the German push in the Balkans toward the Dardanelles.

The pact, which is to run five years and which will be renewed automatically unless denounced by one of the signatories, was signed for Russia by Premier-Foreign Com-missar V. M. Molotov. Japanese

Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Ambassador Lieut.-Gen. Yos-hitsugu Tatekawa signed for Nip-pon.

Observers believed the pact may foreshadow the end of China's fight against Japanese invaders which has lasted nearly four years, since it may signal the termination of Russian material aid to the Chungking regime.

The pact provides for Soviet neutrality in the event Japan becomes enrolled in war and for Japanese neutrality in the event Russia is involved in conflict.

Mussolini Spokesman Says Axis Forces Would Sink American Convoys

(International News Service)
ROME, April 14.—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor and spokesman for Premier Mussolini, said today that the Axis would sink
United States convoys proceeding into belligerent zones.

"The Axis," Gayda said, "is waiting and ready for United States convoys. They will be treated just as the British convoys are treated."

"Roosevelt cannot take the risk of announcing Red Sea convoys because the East African game is finished. Everything bound for the enemy can be legitimately sunk."

"New Axis anti-convoys methods will soon begin."

"The Serbs are not near capitulation and probably will resist in the mountainous central region. The Axis struggle in the Balkans will last for some time."

"Wilson (British General Henry
Maitland Wilson, who was sent from Near Eastern British headquarters at Cairo to direct the campaign in Greece) and British troops undoubtedly will remain to the end."

"It is unthinkable that Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will abandon the Balkan partners. The Axis forces may soon clash with the British Imperial Army."

Denmark's Minister Regards Recall As Invalid Command

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 14.—Henrik
De Kauffmann, Denmark's minister to Washington, today notified the American government that he regards as invalid the Danish government's order recalling him for having granted the United States
the right to defend Greenland.

The Danish envoy delivered to Secretary of State Hull a note explaining that he had received a telegram from the Danish government ordering him to return to Copenhagen immediately.

"I have explained in my note to Mr. Hull that I considered the Danish government's action taken under duress and therefore invalid," Kauffmann said.

Clean-Up!

New Castle will entertain several thousand high school visitors and others from all parts of the state, during the latter part of the present week.

The students are coming here to compete in the state
music and forensic finals.

Not only does New Castle
want to extend its well known hospitality to these visitors, but residents of all streets, as well as the city at large, should do everything possible to make the city look its best inviting.

Clean up your property!
Clean the sidewalks, the streets, etc. See that your own premises look their best, and the sidewalk and street as well. The city will do its part,
but don't put all responsibility
on the city. Do a bit to help.

One of the worst handicaps
in keeping a city looking well is the tendency of citizens to throw bits of paper and refuse in the streets. Co-operate in an effort to eliminate this situation.

Dust Complaints Beginning Early

"This is the first time in possibly a score years that there have been no heavy rains between ice and dust, hence the downtown thoroughfares are dusty. They have been twice holed at night, yet there is dust," said William H. Dunlap, director of streets, today. The streets will be holed again tonight.

One of the objections to the present situation today was Jake Gen-kinger, who said that South Mercer street was dust-filled. He also complained against failure to refill holes apparently made by the gas company. The city director of streets, Dunlap, said they would be filled with cement soon.

Sunday Hottest In Seventy Years

Mercury Touches Summer Figures As Mild Heat Wave
Engulfs District

Sunday was the hottest April 13 in the 77 years that records have been kept at the Pittsburgh weather station, the mercury here being five degrees higher than that registered at the Pittsburgh station, figures compiled by U. S. Weather Observer B. F. Johnson reveal.

According to the Pittsburgh station, the hottest April 13 since 1874 was 84 degrees in 1896. However, it rose to 85 degrees here yesterday,
topping that figure. Strangely enough, the lowest in the 77-year history of the Pittsburgh office was a year ago yesterday, when the official mark registered in Pittsburgh was 24 degrees.

The unusually warm weather has advanced vegetation ahead of its schedule, and many varieties of early flowers are either in bloom or in bud.

B. And O. Employees Have Flag Raising

Car Department Employees Present Pole And Flag To New Castle Terminal

Employees of the Car Department of the B. and O. railroad presented a flag pole and American flag to the new Castle Terminal, which was raised Saturday afternoon, with appropriate ceremonies.

Register and Recorder Orville
Pottery, a veteran of the World War, was the speaker, and Herbert Silverman, of Troop 37, Boy Scouts, served as bugler.

Churches were crowded with worshippers for the morning service, highways were clogged with traffic in the afternoon and the downtown streets reflected the colors of the Easter outfits that were on parade.

From a business standpoint the season was a high spot. Saturday the stores looked like Christmas eve and merchants generally reported heavy business. Florists reported sell-outs of their flower stock and many of them were taking orders
after 8 o'clock Saturday night.

The temperature rose Sunday afternoon to 85 degrees, and one not knowing the month would have said it was mid-June. It was an ideal Easter Day, ideal for everyone, it seemed, and apparently most folks made the most of it.

The weather man was a kindly soul and furnished an Easter sun,
and the gals and boys donned their gala duds, and turned out for the Easter fun. There was morn in her hat that was queer and gay
and sis with some brand new shoes,
and brother likewise had some shoes
of white which he said were too early to use. But pop went along with the same old duds, for Easter gives him a grin, which turns to a frown when the mail man calls and the bills begin to come in. But it was a grand for all of that, the sky was an azure blue, and the gals were delighted which makes things right, the weather is eighty-two.

LONDON, April 14.—Yugoslavian troops have captured the northern Albanian seaport of Durazzo from its Italian defenders, it was stated on reliable authority in London to-

Well informed sources stated that on Friday of last week the "Adolf units in northern Greece but were repulsed. Heavy losses were instated.

Authoritative British quarters said that Yugoslavian morale is good counter-attacking against the Germans north of Nis.

These same sources said that German forces have recaptured the Yugoslavian city of Kragujevac.

Anglo-Greek Defense Halts Nazi Attacks

Greece Takes New Hope In Failure Of Nazi Columns
To Break Through

REINFORCEMENTS OF
BRITISH ARRIVE

Battle On Grand Scale Proportions Is Nearing In Florina Sector

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, April 14.—
Cheered by news of Yugo-slav military successes in the west, British and Greek forces repulsed successive German attacks in the Flor-ina region with "severe losses" today as the Anglo-Greek-Yugoslav allies sought to turn the Nazi technique of rapid mobility into a maneuverable war of position.

Further stiffening of the British-Grecian main defense line anchored at Mt.
Olympus and ranging northwest to Florina was evident in military dispatches reaching Athens this morning.

These dispatches said that intersive overnight fighting had simmered down chiefly to patrol clashes between Nazi and British forces in which the British units inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. In addition, British imperial army reinforcements were reported pouring up to the front in ever-increasing stream.

New Optimism

Failure of the Nazi motorized columns to break through the British-Grecian defense line suffused
Greece with new hope and optimism.
With British help, it was now believed, the Greeks can make an effective stand against the Nazi invaders.

The main Greek defense line, from the Aegean to the Ionian Sea, now is fully manned and ready for action, it was learned.

This line ranges along natural mountainous strongholds with the eastern wing anchored on Mount Olympus. Such formidable natural barriers, Greek military leaders believe, will force the Germans to abandon their mechanized military tactics. And in hand to hand combat with the Nazi infantry, the Greeks feel themselves superior.

The Greek defense line is based on the fewest possible number of mountain passes and those most easily protected by mechanized units. It was believed the mountainous region in which the new line is based also may render ineffective continued German use of dive-bombers.

Attack Repulsed

A number of German attempts to smash through the lines near Flor-ina were repulsed late yesterday with considerable losses to the attackers. At one point, intense artillery and anti-tank fire so badly broke up a German attacking mechanized unit that the Nazi attackers

Legislature To Open Fourteenth Week

Appropriations Nearing Action

House Expects To Have Important Measures Cleared Up By End Of Month

HEAVY CALENDAR IS FACING HOUSE

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 14—Appropriation measures are now beginning to come out of committee for house enactment and the administration's entire fiscal program will be ready for house consideration by the end of April, House Majority Leader Leo A. Achteman disclosed today as the legislature reconvened for its 14th week of deliberations.

"We'll have everything important cleared up by the end of this month," said the Democratic leader. This will give the senate a month in which to complete action on the legislative program. Both sides are aiming at adjournment sine die by the end of May.

Probe Completed

The house appropriations committee has completed its probe of executive department budgets and is now delving into the hospital and home requirements. Achteman would not divulge what changes were being made in Gov. Arthur H. James' $542,000,000 budget, but they were expected to be extensive.

Pursuant to their previously announced program, the Democrats will add sufficient funds, perhaps $12,000,000, to the hospital budget to permit the state to take over 12 county insane institutions. Governor James recommended that the effective date of the act under which the hospitals are being acquired be postponed for another two years, but the Democratic house is not expected to follow his suggestion.

Minor Appropriation Measures

Several of the more minor appropriation measures are in this week's house calendar. They call for the expenditure of $100,000 for farm education courses at state-supported colleges, $50,000 for the eradication of the Japanese beetle, and $10,000 for the expenses of the legislative probe of state hospitals suggested by Achteman and approved by the house. All these will be passed this week, Achteman stated.

As the legislature reconvened the senate had a light calendar studded with minor bills, with the exception of a $500,000 appropriation for financially-distressed school districts. This was expected to be passed by the senate this week.

Meet At 9 P. M.

In the house, however, a heavy calendar with some important measures held the attention of assemblymen. An attempt may be made when the lower house meets at 9 p. m. to pass the Sunday bowling bill which went down to defeat

March 31 by a vote of 98-96, seven less than the required constitutional majority.

Also up for passage was the Scanlon liquor bill authorizing hotels and restaurants to sell bottled liquor after state stores close. There was some doubt as to whether a vote would be taken on this measure in view of the reported decision by the Democratic caucus not to back bills liberalizing the liquor laws.

Another liquor bill, the Kenehan measure permitting the sale of beer and liquor until 2 a. m. Sunday in place of the present Saturday midnight deadline is due to be given a public hearing tomorrow. A public hearing will also be held on Wednesday on the Kilroy-Turner fair weights coal measure.

Of considerable interest to motorists is the Hirsch constitutional amendment barring the transfer of funds from the motor license fund unless provision is made for repayment of the same biennially "by appropriate revenue-producing enactments." The measure is on the second reading calendar, as is also the Readinger-Eckles marriage modification law, which bans common law unions and raises from 16 to 18 years the minimum age requirements for the marriage of minors without court approval.

city and property owners do everything possible to make the city look its very best. Properties and streets should be made as spic and span as possible. Lasting impressions that are important to the city are often made by visits of such crowds. Clean up!

Owen Fox, city forester, has received a communication from State Forester Warren J. Harding of Clarion, stating that prosecutions will be brought against any person or persons that are found responsible for starting fires in any wooded spot within the state. Those found guilty are subject to a heavy fine and imprisonment. Mr. Fox was very busy during the week-end fighting grass fires in Gaston and Cunningham parks. These fires have been started by some unknown persons.

Oiling of streets will probably be started unusually early this season, as a result of dusty condition of the unpaved streets and alleys. This season is unusual, as no heavy rains preceded the coming of warm weather, and streets were not washed off by rains.

Lawrence County's army of trout fishermen is ready. On Tuesday the season opens for the present year, and indications are that there will be a huge number of fishermen along the streams. The streams have been stocked, and unless it rains tonight, the water will be lower than usual for the opening of the trout season.

This is the season when a lady must suffer from the cold or suffer because she isn't wearing her new spring coat.

THREE ARE KILLED IN JAIL-BREAK AT SING SING PRISON

prison hospital by feigning illness. At 2 a. m., Hartie discovered the men changing into civilian clothes in a corner of the ward. He was shot through the abdomen as he gave the warning.

The two escaped convicts, were reported by prison authorities to be Joseph Riordan, 25, and Carl McGale, 44, New York City police, 30 miles south of Ossining, were guarding all roads leading to the city.

Reported Surrounded

Three hours after their escape, the two men were reported surrounded by police in a woods three miles south of Nyack, N. Y., a small town on the west bank of the Hudson river, eight miles south of Ossining.

Reports from the prison indicated that others might have been involved in the attempted break. Only two, however, were reported to have made a clear getaway. Since the plans for the escape had been carefully laid it was believed the escaped men may have had an automobile waiting for them at some point down the river.

Hartie, according to prison officials, died in the prison hospital on the operating table as Dr. Charles C. Sweet, senior surgeon of Sing Sing, performed an emergency operation.

Dies In Hospital

Patrolman Fagin was still alive when rushed to Ossining hospital. He died before an operation could be attempted.

The slain convict, Waters, had been a member of the tri-state mob of "Shopping Bag Bandits," so called because they used to carry off loot from holdups in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut in paper shopping bags.

Riordan was serving a 15-year sentence for participating with Waters in a $10,000 robbery of one of the New York branch offices of the Consolidated Edison Company. McGale was serving a 15-year term for assault and robbery.

Captured In Woods

Joseph Riordan, 25, and Carl McGale, 44, were captured in the woods at Havestrav on the opposite side of the Hudson river, some six hours after the early morning break.

The two captured prisoners were taken back to Sing Sing aboard a small coast guard boat.

The slain guard, John Hartie, was killed in a gun battle with the convicts in the prison yard. James Fagin, an Ossining patrolman, was shot through the heart when he attempted to stop the gunmen outside the prison. It was in this encounter that Waters was slain.

The trio, according to prison authorities, escaped from the third floor of the prison hospital where Waters worked as an attendant and where Riordan and McGale were patients. The two convicts were believed to have feigned illness to gain entrance to the yard.

Prison officials said that the convicts somehow had obtained keys to a tunnel which leads from the prison hospital, in under the penitentiary wall, to a siding of the New York Central Railroad.

Hartie was killed when he discovered the men at 2 a. m. changing into civilian clothes in the corner of the ward. He was shot through the abdomen as he gave warning to other prison guards.

After the brush with the two Ossining officers, McGale and Riordan made their way to the river's edge where they forced two fishermen to row them to Rockland Lake on the Hudson shore opposite Sing Sing.

Several hours later they were reported surrounded by troopers in a woods three miles south of Nyack, N. Y., a small town on the west bank of the Hudson, eight miles south of Rockland Lake.

Police throughout the southern part of the state of New York were immediately mobilized following the escape. Special detachments of New York City police guarded all roads leading to the city in the belief that the convicts would head that way.

HEAVY FIGHTING NOW RAGING NEAR BORDER OF EGYPT

garrison at Tobruk was not yet isolated, despite occupation of Bardia, 80 miles to the east.

(Berlin claimed encirclement of the British at Tobruk had been completed and said their capitulation was expected momentarily.)

Swarms of R. A. F. bombers and fighters plunged into a mighty attack on the German and Italian forces in Egypt and also fought to aid the British at Tobruk in efforts to prevent the Axis forces from completing a breakthrough to the city.

Tanks Are Bombed

Seeking to forestall the enemy attack on Tobruk, low-flying British war planes repeatedly bombed tanks and other vehicles which were "ready for an attack" on the Libyan port, an official R. A. F. communiqué stated.

Roaming far and wide over the desert, other R. A. F. bombers and fighters carried out harassing assaults against Italo-German air-dromes, motorized columns and military positions in eastern Libya. Supply caravans in the Gazala area of the northwest desert were heavily machine-gunned in these aerial attacks.

Occupation of Bardia—first Italian-held Libyan fortress seized by the British in their westward push last winter occurred Saturday, it was said. British troops already had evacuated the fortress, but for the Axis forces it climaxed a swift drive which covered more than 400 miles in little more than a week.

Although the war has become more open, British imperial reinforcements had made the military situation "considerably better" than it was a week ago. Capture of virtually all of Italian East Africa has released great units of troops for action in Egypt, it was said.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

WHAT TOOL KIT MEANS TO CHILD

Young children are apt to fight with weapons. When the toddler begins to use such tools as hammer and saw, unless he has learned adequate restraint, it may harm another child.

Many a child from two to six is not given tools at all to play with in the home because his parents say he would break up the furniture or injure the baby. How absurd! Why rob him of good education from the use of tools and training in character? His parents doubtless have failed to employ punishment intelligently. He needs careful supervision when he first is given tools. When he strikes or threatens to strike another person with a tool or with any other object, he should experience immediate punishment, preferably a good sound spanking. Let him learn once and for all that he must never strike another except with his fists, and then only in self-defense. There may be times, however, when he should be encouraged to use his fists in self-defense, even shown how to do so.

Boxing Lessons

Some children, boys or girls under ten, should indeed, be given boxing lessons as a good means of keeping them from becoming bullies and from being quarrelsome on account of physical fears. But draw the line, strictly forbidding your child even when attacked to resort to sticks, stones and the like. Teach him that it is right and honorable to retreat where others employ such weapons. Sometimes you will command him to come away from a gang when such fighting is in progress. This will not upset him, if he has gained the courage to punish his cowardly assailant with his fists.

There are the air rifle and the bow and arrow. Some adults have but one eye, or are totally blind, or have facial scars, from wounds inflicted by such playthings in early childhood. Except when you are carefully supervising the use of such toys, reasonable safety demands that you entirely forbid them to your child and that he shall stay away from other children using them.

I must confess I do lose patience with parents who let their children strike or kick back. There is no better way to train them to be criminals. The first time your little child deliberately strikes or kicks you, spank him. Do this every time he repeats the act. You may receive a reprint of my magazine article, "Do you spank your child?" by writing me at 233 E. 45th St., New York, in the usual fashion.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What is a good way for a parent to act when a child brings home a bad report card?

A. As a lady or gentleman, not as a maniac. Merely observe the facts without rebuke or anger. In due time, have a conference with the teacher and map out a program for guiding him so he might improve in his school work next term; of finding ways of helping the child learn better study habits. Certainly, shame, ridicule and punishment of the child for the poor school record will do no good. He must be guided day by day henceforth so as to win more success at learning.

The World and the Mud Puddles

A paradox which should halt easy optimism in their tracks is shown in a New York Times story which explains that while industry begs for skilled workers, a million men still apply for the unskilled labor of W. P. A. and hundreds of the jobless drift anxiously from one defense area to another. Old-guard critics to the contrary notwithstanding, men do not choose the pittance and uncertainty of W. P. A. labor in preference to private industry at higher wages. But the New York Times story shows that for every 90,000 men who are leaving W. P. A. each month, another 40,000 are applying for jobs.

Many factors enter into the dark story of the perpetually unemployed. One is, according to W. P. A. officials, the concentration of new industries in a few big population centers, leaving such enormous areas of the country as in the south, for instance, without jobs or the incentive for training. Another is the fact, tragic in its implication of social waste, that the bulk of the permanent W. P. A. load is made up of unskilled men, 43 years old and older.

The existence of these unskilled and jobless thousands in the midst of our sudden and urgent clamor for trained men is a bitter reproach to our still imperfect handling of the responsibilities of democracy. It will be more bitter still if 10 years from now we still are without a plan for the children of these men. The challenge of wasted men is one which very well may be the crucial challenge for democracy and there is not better time and place for its study than here and now.

Hints On Etiquette

Please, Mr. President, get some lecturers to tour the camps and tell the boys what it's all about. You can't get morale without a belief.

Percy was talking with a new girl friend. "I seem to have met you before, Percy," said the girl. "You seem to be the kind of a man a girl can trust." "I guess it must have been some one else," replied Percy. "Your faith is not a bit familiar."

Not making promises is far better than making promises you do not intend to fulfill. Nothing is much worse than making false promises and that holds good outside of politics also.

And they were right. He's running for office now, still promising.

TOO MUCH FINERY

When our man from Missouri lived in the "show me" state 40 years ago and near the Arkansas state line, folks were not quite up on modern things, he relates.

"The school board had held up an order for new ribbons for the typewriter," said the man from Missouri. "The clerk insisted that the ribbons were badly needed, adding that she's a very satisfactory stenographer."

"Mebbe so," replied one board member, "but that don't mean the tax payers ought to pay for her finery and pretty ribbons."

REMEMBER ME? The public-spirited lady met the little boy on the street. Something about his appearance halted her. "Little boy, haven't you any home?" she asked. "Oh, yes, I've got a home." "And loving parents?" "Yes'm." "I'm afraid you do not know what affection really is. Do your parents look after your moral welfare?" "Yes'm." "Are they bringing you up to be a good and helpful citizen?" "Yes'm." "Will you ask your mother to come and hear me talk on 'When Does a Mother's Duty to Her Child Begin?' at 2 o'clock next Monday afternoon in Lyceum hall?" "What's the matter with you, Ma? Don't you know me? I'm your little boy!"

An East Side woman had a problem to settle and she was talking with a neighbor about it. "Why don't you ask your husband's advice about it?" asked the neighbor. "I intend to," replied the woman, "just as soon as I make up my mind what I am going to do."

There are people in this country who say "Well, as long as we have things to eat and a place to sleep, why worry?" That may be all right for them, but what about the millions of people in Europe who have nothing to eat, no place to sleep and have no clothes or anything else?

President Hoover did not draw his $75,000 a year salary while he was president. We have often wondered if he would do it again.

A LONG PULL

"I don't believe I'm ever going to learn to get along with Albert," sighed the young wife as she was talking over her troubles with her mother.

"Let me see," said mother. "You've been married three years now, haven't you?"

"Yes, and it seems I haven't got a bit of influence with him. When he makes up his mind to do something he does it no matter what I think."

"Don't worry, dear," comforted mother. "I've never told anyone this before, but your father was such a strong-minded man that it took me 20 years to get full control of him."

Then there's the little item about the business man who wanted to get away to the ball game but didn't think he could spare the time. The office boy came in and asked time off to attend his grandfather's funeral.

"I'll go with you," said the business man, thinking of course, that the boy wanted to go to the ball game.

Two hours later he returned, pretty grumpy.

"The home team lose?" asked his secretary.

"No. The boy really went to his grandfather's funeral," replied the boss moodily.

In Pennsylvania one out of every two young men called for military service has been found physically unfit. Faulty teeth led to 33.4 per cent of the rejections. Dentists do not advertise.

There are still some people who go to public meetings to get a better hat or coat.

Speaking of husband and wives, some women always resent the lack of courtesy they think they are being shown.

"Why can't you be like Samuel Smith," asked a wife angrily. "Just look out the window at them coming down the street. See how carefully he holds the umbrella over her?"

"He had to pay for that dress, didn't he," asked the husband.

Discuss Interference In Industry
Control May Bring Complications
Various Angles Brought To Light

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Governmental commandeering and operation, during periods of national emergency, of private factories either because their owners are balky about accepting Uncle Sam's contract terms or because they can't agree with their workers and are tied up by strikes, might result in complications that the plans advocates don't seem to think of.

One hears this objection generally raised in such official quarters as William S. Knudsen's production management outfit, by Clarence A. Dykstra's associates on the national mediation board and by labor departmental conciliators of the type of John R. Steedman, James F. Dewey and Esther Francis Haas.

It's a policy, it is agreed, which might prove fairly satisfactory in the case of a company equipped to turn out defense supplies but immovably opposed to acceptance of orders for them, except maybe at extortionate prices. However, there aren't many, if any, companies like this. Contrariwise, as I've had occasion to remark before, quite a few concerns are rather willing to have their plants governmentally taken over for awhile at reasonable rentals.

Labor troubles are what cause most of the deadlocks in defense outputs and aid-the-democracies activities.

Now, assume that a factory is in a state of suspended animation due to a strike. Its management won't yield to the strikers and the strikers won't yield to the management. So the government takes charge, with the management more or less acquiescent, since it will be receiving rent, anyway, which will be better than having its property lying idle on account of the strike.

Thereupon, it will be up to the government, thus, to establish an expert management of its own.

It may be pretty difficult to improve on short notice.

What About Strikers?

But suppose the government succeeds, as to management. Then what about the strikers? It seems a fair guess that they'll demand as good conditions from the government's management as they did from the original, private one. Will the government grant them—even if they're unreasonable? Or will it refuse? Or will it refuse? Or will it refuse?

And obviously it will be a darned sight meaner situation to have a lot of workers on strike against the government than against a private company.

Chairman Hatten W. Summers of the house of representatives' judiciary committee already has told what he'd favor doing about it. He says I quoted him a few days ago, from a congressional speech he made that he'd advocate declaring the strike leaders enemies of the country and sending 'em to the electric chair.

From talks I've had with any number of his fellow legislators though I don't believe he could get a majority for as strong a law as that.

Think of sending John L. Lewis or Phil Murray to the electric chair? Some more moderate chaps suggest conscripting industrial strikers into the military service if they won't work in factories. The flaw in that proposition is that, even if so drafted, they still wouldn't be getting their factories going again. Besides, a lot of 'em aren't of military age.

Well then, it's urged, conscript 'em industrially, regardless of age. MAKE 'em work as slaves. That's another scheme I don't believe from my chats with congressmen, that it would be possible to get a majority for.

So what?

Would the government in charge of a commandeered plant have to accept its strikers' demands, for higher wages and things?

And In Other Plants?

If it did so, wouldn't workers in un-commandeered plants immediately strike or similar bores from their private managements? And

The Great Game Of Politics

No Check These Days

WASHINGTON, April 14. ALMOST totally obscured by war developments abroad, the election last Wednesday of Mr. Edward Clayton Elcher, of Iowa, as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission passed almost completely unnoticed. Yet it is a major Administration post of real power and significance.

THAT in none of the metropolitan newspapers was there either front-page space or editorial comment on Mr. Elcher's selection is indicative of the extent to which the normal functions of government have shrunk in the public eye and mind in recent months. Last year, for example, a new chairman of the SEC would have seemed of great importance. The qualifications and record of the new man would have been exhaustively discussed. Now they get practically no notice at all.

WHILE perhaps this shrinkage of interest in domestic matters is a natural product of a war in which the American people are participating, it will be most unfortunate if it is permitted to go unchecked. Because that would mean a rapid degeneration and deterioration in administrative personnel, policy and management which only a vibrant public interest, plus a vigilant and critical opposition, is able to prevent in normal times. Remove those two checks and a lowering of the level is inevitable. Remove them and there remains nothing to prod public officials into making their deeds conform to their words; nothing to prevent them from ignoring their public promises and evading their obligations. Anyone who thinks that public officials do not need that kind of prodding knows little about the facts of political life.

WE have had one fine recent example of this easy evasion, made possible by the defense psychology, in the almost complete impunity with which Mr. Roosevelt has nullified his own solemn warning to the people last January, that because of the vast defense expenditures every governmental expense must be "pared to the bone". In the face of that unequivocal statement he presented a budget which increases, rather than reduces, the normal governmental costs. In addition, he personally endorsed the hundred per cent increase in his appropriation demanded by one of his aides, Mr. Mellett, for his propaganda bureau, and following that up by permitting, without a word of disapproval, the most gigantic farm grab in history to go through Congress.

AND now he has promoted to the SEC chairmanship a man whose selection under normal conditions

And all the glory of the boastful great;
Can turn my back upon all worldly pride,
But not the hungry poor man at my gate.

His table set with costly glass and plate,
I can reject his plea with him to dine,
But not that starving brother at my gate.

But when some faltering fellow asks for aid
I listen, lest my service come too late.

1811—Justin Smith Morrill, political leader and financier, at Stafford, Vt. He was a member of the House and of the Senate for 43 years, and is probably best known as the author of the Land Grant Act, which provided for the foundation and maintenance of colleges.

1879—James Branch Cabell, novelist, at Richmond, Va. An ironic romantic whose professed object was "to write perfectly of beautiful happenings," he was forced to wait for the suppression of "Jürgen" to win him a wide reputation.

ESCAPE FROM SOMBER SIDE

ALTHOUGH the baseball season is opening under a barrage of somber world-wide news, it is welcome as one more sign that a long, bitter and depressing winter is drawing its weary length to a close, bringing a new element of pleasantly exciting diversion into the life of the nation.

The season is more than ordinarily welcome. The public mind has been preoccupied during recent months with matters that are wholly unpleasant, the most disturbing of which is the war, with its shocking developments and equally appalling potentialities. Or course, the war will continue to be omnipresent, a menace which cannot be entirely dispelled from the mind regardless of how alluring the other distractions may be.

But the baseball season will nevertheless be helpful. It will be a relief during these coming months to be able to turn the mind from sinister figures abroad to the performances of diamond stars and to follow the fortunes of the big and little league teams.

Life's tragedies and misfortunes press incessantly for attention and cannot be escaped. But it is occasionally possible to get away from them for a time, and baseball is by no means the least appealing and effective means to this end.

AFTER 120 YEARS

For 120 years through tremendous economic vicissitudes and many conflicts, foreign and internal, little Greece has kept its freedom. It was in 1821 that the modern Greeks began their war of independence from the Ottoman power, to which they had been subjected for centuries.

Their struggle was long and bitter, and it was not until eight and one-half years later that, by the terms of the protocol of London, Greece was constituted as an independent monarchy under the joint protection of Britain, France and Russia. The Greeks' nominal rulers have been scions of two different European royal houses, but for the most part they have substantially ruled themselves. Twice subsequently they have been at war with Turkey, and although victorious in neither instance managed to maintain their independence.

This year, dark though the future be, the Greeks defeated Mussolini's legions in Albania, a victory accomplished by almost incredible daring against tremendous odds. Whatever betides, the modern Greeks have displayed the sort of bravery demanded by Spartan mothers in admonition to their sons.

SLOWPOKES ARE A MENACE, TOO

Senator W. H. T. Purnell, of the Delaware legislature, will appear to millions of motorists as a Daniel come to judgment upon an outstanding irritation—the slowpoke driver.

In preparation of a new code he has inserted a provision under which motorists who drive so sedately as to "impede or block normal and reasonable movement of traffic, except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with law" shall be directed by police either to get out of the way of following cars, or step on it enough to let the line get going some places. Failure to obey instruction in such a case would subject an offender to a fine.

The senator's plan seems to offer a sensible and reasonable method of disposing of a type of driver whose unnecessary interference with travel may, as the senator argues, actually cause accidents.

But if such a law is passed it would place on highway policemen an additional duty to crack down on the other and greater menace—the speed fiend who roars past at 65 to 70 in a 50-mile zone and snarls with his horn at drivers who observe anything near the legal limit.

AMERICAN HEALTH

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States Public Health Service has reported, upon returning from a survey of conditions in England, that the public health of this country is a "national disgrace."

He said that worse sanitary conditions prevail around some of this country's defense projects than in the British air raid areas, and that the rejection for physical reasons of 30 to 40 per cent of Americans called up for the draft presents "a public health problem to challenge the maximum intelligence of American medicine and public health."

Considering the great advances that Americans have made in house plumbing and public sanitation, there is no good excuse for failure to begin the expansion of defense projects with a provision for adequate sanitary facilities. Failure to take this step is due solely to bad planning.

As for the poor physical condition of draftees, it is conceded that Army regulations are somewhat more severe than they were a few years ago, but they still do no more than require that a recruit be physically qualified to perform ordinary manual work. The Army does not call for supermen or even extraordinary men. It merely asks for recruits in whom it can build the physical endurance of an average able-bodied man.

Since the sanitary shortcomings of the defense program can be corrected by easily available means, and most of the defects that bar more than one-fourth of the draftees from service can be repaired by following the advice of a physician, it seems that Dr. Parran is not far wrong in classing the situation.

An official says compulsory arbitration would make labor slaves. Then there is another view to the effect that voluntary idleness threatens to make Hitler slaves.

Petain at last reveals he would consider it dishonorable for France to go against her former allies. Britain agrees with this and hopes it can depend on it.

To Observe Anniversary Of Girl Reserve Movement

Plans for the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the Girl Reserve Movement, to be observed the week of April 20-26, are rapidly nearing completion. A full schedule of activities is being made up for the week by various committees.

Definite work with younger girls was being done by the Y.W.C.A. as early as 1881. Oakland, Calif., had as an auxiliary a "Little Girls' Christian Association." In 1886, girls from ten to 16 years of age in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., formed a miniature association. During the years, 1890-1900, the association began to assemble all activities with younger girls, or juniors, in some form of organization, with the idea of a separate Junior Department in mind.

Between 1909 and 1912, local associations began having special secretaries for their Girls' Departments. In 1913, the fourth biennial convention of the Y.W.C.A.'s of the United States, held at Richmond, Va., passed recommendations that the name, Junior Department, be changed to "Girls' Department"; that this department should promote activities for girls of all classes between 10 and 15 years of age, and that the department should receive the same emphasis accorded work for young women. By 1915, the number of girls' work secretaries had increased from 14 to 54 and the number of associations doing girls' work from 145 to 190. The age limit became 12 to 18 years.

In 1918, unity among these various plans was brought about by the use of the name, Girl Reserves, and the Girl Reserve symbol, code, slogan and purpose were adopted. The clubs grew rapidly with a total of 192,000 members in 1925. From the beginning of this period, emphasis was placed on democratic participation by members and on adult guidance to stimulate thinking and to help girls make plans but not to dominate. A system of honors and awards was introduced in 1918, but was discarded by 1927.

In 1918, program ideas were grouped under health, knowledge, service and spirit. Later, a restatement of emphases listed work, fellowship, recreation and religion. As early as 1915, social responsibility was one of the basic ideas, and after 1918 this phase of the program was given increased emphasis. Religious education was much stressed and considered vital and necessary as permeating the whole program, rather than one part of it. 1922 saw the beginning of expansion of program to include rural girls in the registered club plan. Groups were also started with Negro and Indian girls, also with foreign-born and second-generation girls in International Institutes. In 1924, the Y. W. C. A. convention passed a resolution commending correlation of Girl Reserve work with that of the rest of the association.

In 1926, in the official report of the Girl Reserve movement, a position was taken against any standardized program. This resulted in experimenting with interest groups and the "project principle," emphasizing "purposeful activity." This was studied widely by adult leaders. The keeping of group and individual records is now recognized to be of great importance in effective group leadership, and much experimentation with record keeping is now being done by Girl Reserve secretaries and advisers.

In 1939, statistical reports totaled 315,453 Girl Reserves in 418 community associations and 415 registered Y. W. C. A.'s. In 1940, a national conference for Girl Reserve secretaries was held. The findings of this conference listed program emphases as work, health, problems of social concern, personal relations, religion and the arts.

would have evoked a very loud protest indeed. The fact is that, beginning with Mr. Kennedy, whose qualifications were conceded, the President seems to have progressed steadily downward in his selections for this chairmanship. While it is true the commission elects its chairman, it elects the man Mr. Roosevelt says he wants. In seven years there have been five chairmen of this commission, which in itself indicates an instability not consistent with good administration. The fact is, the job seems to have been consistently used as a steppingstone or springboard.

MR. KENNEDY went from it to his Ambassadorship; Mr. Douglas went to the Supreme Court; Mr. Landis became dean of the Harvard Law School, and Mr. Frank was named to the Federal judgeship he had been promised. Mr. Eicher, the new chairman, is personally a decent, amiable, though rather ineffectual, individual, who early lined himself up with the radical element of the New Deal. As a member of Congress, absorbing the views of Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Cohen, he made a manful fight, under their direction, for the death-sentence clause in the Public Utility Act and was rewarded by appointment to the SEC.

HIS friends say that as chairman he probably will reflect the views of Mr. Leon Henderson, who could have had the job had he wanted it, and of Mr. Jerome Frank, the late chairman. That there is anything in Mr. Eicher's record as a lawyer, his career as a Congressman or his general intellectual equipment to make him a competent and understanding chairman is not claimed by those who know him best. However, they say that makes little difference, as his real ambition, like Mr. Frank's, is to go on the Federal bench. Being chairman of the SEC, if past performances are considered, should greatly enhance his chances.

BUT it does make a difference. It makes this difference: Mr. Roosevelt had the opportunity to name as chairman a strong, clearheaded man, under whom the awful red tape in which the SEC is enmeshed could have been measurably unraveled and a constructive, instead of punitive, attitude adopted in dealing with its problems. Such a selection would have had a stabilizing effect. Instead he has put in a man affiliated with the extreme radicals among the New Dealers, an original champion of the death-sentence idea, who enthusiastically concurred in the recent arbitrary and somewhat silly SEC ruling on competitive bidding, which was opposed by nearly all American investment bankers with the exception of one Chicago house which used to float Insull's "securities." It is one of the bad features of the present situation that this sort of selection can be made with practically no protest at all.

What's What At A Glance

wouldn't strikes quickly become rampant everywhere? Wouldn't the government have to commandeer all industry and grant boosts to all wage workers?

Spokesmen at headquarters like the production management's and the mediation board's incline to answer these questions affirmatively. Finally, here are a couple of additional considerations: Suppose the government does take everything over, hikes pay in all directions and subsequently returns the commandeered industries to their original private managements. These managements are on record now to the effect that the strikers' present demands would ruin 'em.

When they get their industries back from the government, won't they immediately want to cut down again? And won't THAT raise havoc? It's an issue that's a terrible worry to Bill Knudsen's production management's chief economist, Leon Henderson—post-emergency deflation.

Pre-Easter Advance Campaign Is Closed With Fine Results

With ideal weather conditions prevailing, Easter Sunday climaxed the 8 weeks of increase effort known as the "Pre-Easter Advance" and record breaking attendances were general throughout the city, making a fitting culmination to this effort to promote an increase in Evangelism, Sunday School attendance, Church attendance and Bible study.

The out-standing Sunday School of the four, New Castle Group, and in fact of the whole of Lawrence County, was the First Presbyterian Sunday School of New Castle who made a successful increase every Sunday throughout the 8 weeks of the campaign and making their greatest gain Easter Sunday, 222 more than the average attendance of 1940, a grand total of 945 points with the unusually high total percentage of 2.768. The 126 Sunday Schools of Lawrence County salute the First Presbyterian Sunday School and their outstanding attendance achievement, for they have ably demonstrated what can be accomplished when the right organization, effort and spirit are combined. The First Christian was second in this group with 1,004 per cent.

The highest attendance of the campaign was registered by the Third United Presbyterian Sunday School Easter, 773 present making a gain of 267 for the Sunday, a total of 661 points for the campaign and a total percentage of 1.164 which makes them the winner of the First, New Castle, Group. The First Baptist, with a gain of 201 for Easter, gave the leading U. P.'s a close race with a total of 508 points and a combined percentage of 1.127. The Epworth Methodist made a surprise move with a gain for Easter of 221 points which boosted them from last place into third place with a total of 530 points and a percentage of 767.

In the Third, New Castle, Group the Wesley Methodist was first with 108 points and 818%, the Mahoning Methodist was second with a total of 141 points and a percentage for the campaign of 742. The Maitland Memorial Primitive Methodist was third with a total of 85 points and a combined percentage of .667.

All of the Sunday Schools of the fourth, New Castle, Group had high percentages with the St. John's Lutheran winning first honors with a total of 151 points and a percentage of 1.678. The Reformed Presbyterian had a total percentage of 1.058, the Mahoningtown Presbyterian, 1.025 and the Madison Avenue Christian, 750.

The attendances of the Sunday Schools in the districts outside of New Castle, were generally high, and will be reported later in the week when the campaign figures are complete.

The church attendance figures for Easter were the best of the campaign to date, the Second United Presbyterian Sunday School winning first place having the unusually high percentage for the 8 weeks of 87% of the Sunday School attendance that remained for church. The Highland United Presbyterian Sunday School did almost as well with 82% of the Sunday School attendance remaining for the church service throughout the 8 weeks of the campaign. The following are the church attendance figures to date:

House Is Burned At Cottage Grove

New Wilmington Firemen Called To Scene—Loss May Be Around $3,000

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, April 14.—Causing damage conservatively estimated at $3,000, a destructive fire yesterday completely gutted the house of W. R. Bumbaugh at Cottage Grove, two miles south of New Wilmington. The local fire department responded to an alarm at about 4:30 p. m., and succeeded in getting the fire under control before it completely destroyed the house.

The inside of the house, a two-story frame building, was thoroughly burned. In addition, almost all of the furniture was destroyed. New Wilmington Fire Chief Harold Anderson and other firemen stated that the damage would probably exceed the $3,000 mark.

Although the origin of the fire cannot be definitely determined, it is believed by the firemen that defective wiring was the cause.

The fire department also responded to an alarm earlier in the day, at about noon, but discovered upon reaching the scene of the fire, near New Bedford, that it was a grass fire already under control.

Smyser Arrives In Great Britain

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, April 14.—Word has been received in New Wilmington that Albert E. ("Bud") Smyser, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smyser, has arrived safely in England to take up his duties as a non-combatant pilot.

Mr. Smyser will be engaged in flying planes from training grounds to the front. He is one of a group of Americans who volunteered for this service, being an experienced pilot.

A training course, for the purpose of teaching the American flyers how to run the 58 various types of planes being used by the British will occupy the first six weeks of the volunteers' time, after which they will be sent to work.

New York ranks as the first manufacturing state with 34,514 factory establishments annually producing goods valued at more than seven billion dollars, census statistics show.

ANGLO-GREEK

DEFENSE HALTS

NAZI ATTACKS

"retreated in haste, leaving several destroyed armored cars and tanks to mark the spot of defeat.

At another point, a German patrol sought to pierce the advance Greek line but so quickly was the gunfire of the Greek defenders drawn to the spot that a number of Germans were caught off guard and taken prisoner before they could join their comrades in flight to the German lines.

Meanwhile, the resistance of the Yugoslav forces—which Berlin last week claimed to have decimated—was reported stiffening noticeably with a marked increase in combative effort by the soldiers of youthful King Peter. Cautious military reports said only that "the situation is taking a favorable turn" but reports from other sources spoke of a brilliant capture of Durazzo, strategic Adriatic seaport in Italian dominated Albania, by the Yugoslav forces.

The latest reports of Anglo-Greek successes on the Olympus-Florina line followed the shattering of British mechanized forces of a heavy Nazi Panzer attack in the nearby Yanitsa plain.

"Restricted Local Activity"

A brief high command communiqué mentioned only "restricted local activity", but authorities implied the Germans suffered so heavily in Saturday's futile attacks on Anglo-Greek defenses that they remained in their positions all day yesterday.

These same quarters in Athens said the Balkan conflict was entering a second stage, with the Yugoslav army, spurred by British and Greek successes, now ready to play a more important role after reaching their mountain fastnesses.

Meanwhile, German planes rained new loads of bombs on Piraeus, the port of Athens, the Greek ministry of home security revealed. But the Greek announcement claimed the bombers which attacked in repeated relays succeeded only in damaging a police station.

The Greek port of Volos also was raided Saturday night, it was announced. Three German bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft fire and a fourth was downed during an attack on the Greek-occupied Albanian port of Chimara.

Reorganize Positions

The Athens radio broadcast an announcement that Anglo-Greek forces on the main defense line, extending from the Aegean to the Adriatic seas, took advantage of the German lull to reorganize and reinforce their positions. The situation on all fronts were termed "very satisfactory."

Information reaching Athens from Nazi-captured Thrace and Macedonia indicated the Greek infantry—man for man—is far superior to the Germans in hand to hand fighting, the broadcast said.

Nazi troops melted away under furious Greek bayonet charges just as the Italians did in Albania, the radio announcer claimed.

At the western end of the main defense line, Hellenic shock troops and swift British and Australian armored units were understood to have repelled German onslaughts toward Florina.

Simultaneously reports from Athens told of increasing Yugoslav attacks against the Germans on both sides of the Morava river, north of Nis, and also in south Serbia where the town of Brokujlje was said to have been recaptured from the Nazis.

In Bosnia a Nazi mechanized force was claimed to have been hit by counter-attacking Yugoslavians and hurled back, permitting a Yugoslav advance through strategic Kacamik gorge.

forces today were credited with sinking 117,000 tons of enemy merchant vessels within 48 hours.

However, news of operations in Greece was scarce. Official announcements said only that operations in that area—where German panzer columns are in contact with the main defenses of the British and Greeks—are "proceeding according to schedule."

According to all indications, both forces are co-ordinating their strength for an imminent mass attack by the Germans on this second line of Anglo-Greek defense.

Hull Warns On Overestimating Of Soviet-Jap Pact

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 14—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today cautioned against overestimating the importance of the neutrality pact concluded between Soviet Russia and Japan.

Resorting to the unusual procedure of permitting his remarks to be quoted, Hull, in response to a request at his press conference for comment on the pact, said:

"The significance of the pact between the Soviet Union and Japan relating to neutrality, as reported in the press today, could be overestimated. The agreement would seem to be descriptive of a situation which has, in effect, existed between the two countries for some time past.

"Therefore, it comes as no surprise, although there has existed doubt whether the two governments would or would not agree to say it in writing.

"The policy of this government, of course, remains unchanged."

Supreme Court In New Decision In Contempt Cases

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 14—In a 5 to 3 decision, the Supreme Court today scuttled a 23-year-old doctrine and ruled that courts in inflicting punishment for contempt are limited to obstructions of justice actually affecting conduct of business.

The liberal decision overruled the 1918 Toledo newspaper company freedom of the press case, and makes it more difficult for judges to punish for contempt of court.

Boyles Men Handed Bonuses At Dinner

Coal & Supply Firm Dines Workers, Announces Safety Contest

Thirty employees of Boyles Coal & Supply Co., 431 South Mill street, received handsome cash bonuses from E. Norris Boyles, owner of the firm, at a banquet the company sponsored in Sylvan Heights clubhouse Saturday night.

The payments, drawn from the company's own profits-sharing fund, came as a complete surprise to the workmen.

Announcement of a new company safety drive, to be launched immediately, followed on the heels of the bonus presentations.

Principal speaker was Mr. Boyles, the owner, who told the men that substantial cash awards await the winners of the new safety competition. He said the contest will include drivers of the firm's 14 trucks and all those at its mines. The cash awards are payable semi-annually.

Boyles personally handed out the bonus payments, congratulating each employee as he passed out his share of profits. He predicted "better business" for all.

Other speakers were Loyal J. "Odey" Foster, sales manager of the firm, and W. R. Clement, chief clerk in the company office.

Entertainment following the program was provided by talented Billie Glenn and her revue. Pep singing was a popular feature, too.

Sometimes the comic strips are a little hard to believe. For instance, Orphan Annie is the only kid outside of poetry to cry. "Hark!"

It isn't being in debt or having little that gets us down, but not having things figured out so we can see our way clear.

Mill Purchase Ordinance Now Before Council

Measure To Provide For Bus Lines Is Also Presented Today

Two important bills were introduced when council met in the City building today. Both were sent to committee for consideration. One relates to the purchase of 24.1 acres which includes 13 buildings, from the C-I Steel company (Greer mill) and the other relates to the release of the New Castle Electric Railway company of its franchise rights. Councilman J. D. Alexander submitted the first measure, and Councilman W. H. Dunlap, the second.

The bill which provides for the purchase of the Greer mill property was in blank, and when entirely drafted will be studied by council in committee.

It follows in the wake of an announcement by Solicitor Robert M. White recently that the city had agreed to buy the property at a price not yet disclosed and later dispose of it to a concern which city officials asserted would begin operations, probably within a few months, and employ 800 persons.

The other measure, when adopted finally, will repeal all ordinances granting to the railway company any right, privilege or franchise to construct, maintain and operate electric street railway lines within the city, and releases and discharges the company from all obligations, contingent upon PUC approval.

Shenango Firemen Are Kept On Jump

Grass Fires Cause Many Calls — Chickens Burns And Chickens Burns

Sweeping brush fires, mostly run-of-mine but some laden with potential property threats, are keeping Shenango township's dog-tired but ever-alert fire-fighters working overtime.

But not all are grass fires—yesterday afternoon 350 chickens owned by James Hogue, New Castle R. F. D. 6, were destroyed when flames, believed started by a brooder, enveloped a chicken house on the Hogue farm.

The Hogue place is in Slippery Rock township, but the call was so urgent the Shenango men responded gladly.

Another chicken house on the Moyer farm along R. F. D. 1 went up in smoke Saturday as a result of a grass fire out of control. Damage was placed at $50. Two other smaller brush fires were extinguished with no damage.

Shenango's volunteer department today received two all-service gas masks from their own ladies' auxiliary, and a complete demonstration of their workability will come at East New Castle Friday, April 19, at 7 p. m. A representative of the Mine Safety Appliance Co., Pittsburgh, will be in charge.

There is consolation even in hitting bottom. Nothing can stand still, and there is no way to go but up.

Coal Controversy Not Settled As Yet

Defense Industries May Be Hampered If Deadlock Is Not Broken Soon

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 14.—"Pressure from Washington" seemed today to be inevitable if the deadlock in the soft coal negotiations is to be broken and the nation's bituminous mines re-opened.

Negotiations with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, have been at a standstill since Friday afternoon when the southern operators, taking sharp issue with the northern operators on the wage question, withdrew from the conference and asked that the problem be put up to the newly-created defense mediation board.

A serious tie-up of defense industries appeared to be in prospect as the likelihood of an early settlement became more remote. It was suggested in some quarters that the personal intervention of President Roosevelt may become necessary to break the deadlock.

The bituminous mines, employing 400,000 men, automatically shut down at midnight March 31 when the two-year contract under which they had been working expired. Although Lewis and the mine operators have been trying since March 11 to negotiate a new contract they still are far apart and the nation's threatened coal shortage is becoming more acute as the days slip by.

Despite the disruption of negotiations on Friday, the conference was scheduled to be resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon under the guidance of Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the U. S. Conciliation Service. Steelman, at the instigation of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, has been trying for more than a fortnight to bring the warring factions together. He has been in constant touch with Washington by telephone.

Odd Fellows Hall Threatened By Fire

Fire In Ante-room Built In Hallway Occurs At Midnight Saturday

City firemen were called to the building occupied by the Odd Fellows lodge and Temple club, Saturday night at 12:30 o'clock, when fire was discovered in an ante-room, in the hallway on the second floor. An alarm from box 31 called five fire companies to the scene, and when they arrived they found the fire just beginning to spread. Another five minutes, and the building would have been engulfed, it is said. The fire was quickly knocked down and extinguished before it had a chance to break through the surrounding walls. A loss of around $200 was sustained, covered by insurance.

Many other alarms were answered by firemen over the week-end, none of them serious. At 3:10 Saturday afternoon they were called to East Washington street near Court street, where a fire was found in the auto of Raymond Williams, Neshannock township. The damage was slight.

Grass fires called firemen to Gaston park and Cunningham park Saturday afternoon and to Cascade park and Elizabeth street Sunday afternoon. Sunday morning at 7:45 o'clock firemen were summoned to the kitchen of the Leslie hotel, where grease was afire on the range; and at 11:40 o'clock they were called to the city tool house on George street, where there was a live wire down. P. & O. Electric Co. employees took care of the danger.

The number of blacksmith shops decreased 3,500—from 20,325 to 16,797—during the four-year period, 1935 to 1939, according to the census. Receipts, however, were off only 3.9 per cent, from $23,454,000 to $22,567,000.

EYE-TESTS IN SCHOOLS REVEAL BAD SIGHT

A school inspector tells me that in recent years the number of so-called backward and problem children has been greatly reduced in schools by simply giving more attention to the eyes of the pupils. In other words, many youngsters get a name for being backward in school, not because they are stupid and unable to learn, but because they can't see well.

This has happened countless times: Johnny doesn't keep up with other pupils in the class when he gets into grade school. But his I. Q. seems normal, so he is just considered obstinate and lazy and in consequence is harassed by teacher and parent. He doesn't realize what is wrong with him, but he knows he can't do what is expected, and he naturally regards the nagging as unjust. He becomes depressed and repressed, or he vents his feelings in rebellious outbursts that cause him to be considered a problem child.

His trouble is that he hasn't good eyesight. Being a child and never having had any other kind of sight, he doesn't realize that it is bad, so he can't explain it to his parents.

Where there are regular eye tests such as are given in many schools, it is determined right away that a slow-to-learn Johnny's eyes need attention and corrective measures are taken. Meanwhile, he gets instruction in a special class for children with impaired vision.

Now, of course, poor eyesight is not the only cause of poor scholarship and unruly conduct. But the child described above is altogether too common in many school systems.

I have always thought sight is the greatest gift God has given us. It is such a wonderful thing that we should guard it like a treasure. Our eyes need protection from the moment we are born.

The eye is exactly like a camera, and yet many persons take better care of their cameras than they do of their eyes.

The eye-ball or camera case sits on a cushion of fat which is tripod and shock absorber. Behind the filter, or cornea, which is like a watch crystal and is the transparent part of the coat of the eyeball which covers the iris and pupils and admits light to the interior, is the lens called the iris. It is the colored part of the eye. The cornea and refracting media serve as a lens to focus the light rays.

Behind this pupil is another lens, which focuses the light entering onto the sensitive nerves at the back of the eye. This is the sensitive plate on which the image is formed on the macula lutea on the optic nerve. It is also called the blind spot of the eye located on the temple side of the fovea. All of this is part of the retina. To continue the parallel with the camera, this retina may be said to correspond to the film in our camera. It is perhaps the most important and most delicate part of the eye. All the other parts of the eye serve this retina in some way or other. It is vital to our sight because it changes the light which falls upon it into optic nerve impulses that are carried to the brain.

The eyes of a newborn baby will be found to be about two-thirds the size of an adult. That is because the structures that go to make up the eye aren't quite developed. For the first two or three months the baby doesn't really see clearly. First he distinguishes only light. A baby is ten weeks old before the nerves connecting his eyes to his brain are entirely formed so they can transmit the impulses they receive through the pupils.

Contest Trophies Are On Display

Loving Cups And Other Trophies For Contestants In State School Finals

A considerable display of loving cups and other trophies for the winners in the Pennsylvania Music and Forensic League contests to be held here April 18 and 19 on view in the windows of a Washington street jewelry store. Most of them show a list of names and dates on which the state honors in some particular field of vocal or instrumental music have gone to various schools of the state. If any school wins a particular honor for three successive years the trophy belongs permanently to that school. Otherwise the trophy is held for only the period between contests.

There are fifty-seven awards of honors to be given out in New Castle this week-end. Many of these will, as usual, be given to schools for winning bands, orchestras, choruses and various ensemble groups. Some solo events will bring a medal to the successful contestant and this will be his own permanent possession. In the case of the seven forensic contests for excellence in speech, performance, the winners this year will be given dictionaries.

During the contest period the school trophies will be on display in the trophy case of the senior high school on Lincoln avenue until the adjudicators present their decisions. Immediately after each contest the decision will be made and the trophy presented.

Among the trophies which are the permanent possession of our own senior high school, those of most interest are a plaque given to our band on the occasion of its winning district honors for the school year 1929-30, and a plaque presented to the senior high school orchestra when it played in the national contest at Madison, Wisconsin, in 1935 after winning over all other competing orchestras in Pennsylvania. Since these the other Pennsylvania orchestras were the winners in their respective districts, our schools were highly honored on that occasion.

Friends Give Farewell Tribute To C. A. Patterson

Fifty friends of Attorney Clarence A. Patterson "told him off" Saturday night in The Castleton hotel, but the telling was not the kind that leads to anything worse than a handshake and wishes of success in a new field. It was a testimonial dinner given by friends in four "L's", the Legion, the Law, the Library and the Lally.

Originally sponsored by the American Legion, which organization Mr. Patterson has served for many years, the plan was changed and friends outside the Legion invited. The result was a crowd that included professional and business men, attorneys and laymen, service and non-service men. And it was quite an affair.

Ivor V. Davis, Chairman
A substantial dinner was served in the ballroom at seven o'clock and following that the general chairman Ivor V. Davis opened the program. He recounted Mr. Patterson's service to any "L" while cause here, congratulated him upon being selected as the general counsel of the Farm Credit Administration in Baltimore, Md., and then turned the program over to the toastmaster.

Attorney William J. Caldwell, a member of the Free Public Library board, as Mr. Patterson, was the first speaker introduced. He stressed the value of Mr. Patterson's work in getting the old post office building for the library and said the board would miss his guidance and service in the days to come.

Former Judge R. Lawrence Hill, debrand spoke for the law, and represented the Lawrence County Bar association. He recalled Mr. Patterson's admission to the bar and his regard for the ethics and traditions of the bar in his practice here since 1922.

Mayor Guy J. Wadlinger spoke for the American Legion. He told of Mr. Patterson's work as a director of the Legion Home and the many years of service he had given to the Perry S. Gaston post. He then presented Mr. Patterson with a Distinguished Service Certificate, the first of its kind ever presented by the Perry S. Gaston post.

Judge And District Attorney

Judge Charles H. Matthews, Jr., of the Lawrence County bench was the next speaker. He was most complimentary in his praise of Mr. Patterson as a practitioner and said that in his new field Mr. Patterson would carry with him the best wishes of the court and bar here.

District Attorney John G. Lamore followed Judge Matthews and said that he had found Mr. Patterson a hard adversary but a fair one. Like the other speakers Mr. Lamore predicted that in his new field Mr. Patterson would go on to new honors.

Attorney James M. Keller of Ellwood City, one of the younger lawyers at the Lawrence County bar followed the district attorney. Mr. Keller's words were brief but added to the spirit of the occasion.

The Lally was represented by Ross D. Rosenberger, a member of the Anvil chorus with which Mr. Patterson eats lunch almost every day. The Anvil chorus is composed of a group of lunchers who meet in the Castleton hotel at noon each day, their motto being "never a kind word." Mr. Rosenberger came close to breaking the rule of the organization but restrained himself with difficulty. Back of his humorous barbs however were a genuine respect and admiration for the guest of honor.

Chester C. Sweesy was the last speaker before the guest of honor. He spoke briefly and concluded by presenting Mr. Patterson with a handsome travelling bag which will be useful in his new work.

Patterson Responds

In his response Mr. Patterson said that his decision to accept the post in Baltimore had been made after considerable delay and consideration. "It is no easy thing to leave the home town, one's old friends and associations," said Mr. Patterson. "I only hope that in my new work I will be as fortunate in my friends as I have been in New Castle."

During the evening a message of regret was read from Judge W. Walter Braham, home, sick, and telegram read from Ralph K. Davies and Roger W. Rowland congratulating Mr. Patterson. Before the close of the affair a bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Patterson who was not present and the bouquet entrusted to her husband. The toastmaster of the evening was Bart Richards.

Mr. Patterson leaves late this month for Baltimore, Md., where he will start his new duties about May 1st. In his career in Baltimore he undoubtedly will look back upon the Saturday night party at The Castleton as one of the pleasantest evenings of his life.

Koppel Has Big Fire Loss

Liquor Store And Cartwright's Warehouse Are Burned Sunday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, April 14.—Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the local Cartwright Hardware company's warehouse at Koppel at 6 o'clock last night. Also housed in the building was the State Liquor store.

Paul J. Cartwright, secretary-treasurer of the company, said that the building was valued at $20,000 and that it contained some $1500 worth of stock. Stock and fixtures of the liquor store were valued at $5,000. In addition, furniture and property of two second-floor tenants were destroyed.

The structure was a modern two-story brick and steel construction. A new truck recently purchased by the Cartwrights was housed in the building, but the driver, who resides in Koppel, was able to get the truck out of the flaming structure.

The front apartment was occupied by Ralph Pisanio and the back apartment by Mr. Smith, manager of the liquor store. Furniture of another tenant was also stored in the building. Nothing was saved.

Beaver Falls, Koppel, and Ellwood City firemen fought the blaze for several hours and did a fine job in saving a building located one lot distance from the warehouse. Buildings across the street were also saved, although the awnings caught fire and the windows were broken by the intense heat and water.

The owners of the building are making every effort today to determine the cause of the fire, which evidently had been smoldering for sometime.

Half Million In Easter Parade At Atlantic City

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 4.—As the last of a record crowd of 500,000 weary visitors departed early today, all agreed that Easter day, 1941, had set an all-time high in numbers, color—and affluence.

Smiling skies greeted joyous board walk paraders from the opening of sunrise services on steel pier until darkness. Traffic along the boards was slowed to a snail's pace at noon by the jams of promenaders and wheel chairs.

Mildred's garb, of course, held the center of the stage—but Uncle Sam crept in this year to steal some of the glory. Many outfits showed the military influence in adornments and insignia honoring the nation's soldiers, sailors and airmen.

Navy blue reigned again as perennial favorite in the eastern style sweepstakes—with browns and sands close runners-up. Spring suits dominated in the field of apparel, replete with red accessories. Also rans were peek-a-boo blouses and all sorts of furs.

'Once-A-Year Club' Banquets Thursday

Crowd Of New Castleites, All Pals Of Old, Ready For Reunion

The "Once-A-Year Club" will hold its first, last and only 1941 "shindig" at Sylvan Heights club house Thursday evening, April 17, at 6:30 o'clock. W. E. "Ted" Clarke, city postman and club president, announced today.

Secretary L. J. "Odey" Foster said 30 dinner reservations have been made by those who make up the novel group—all acquaintances of old, who, about four years ago, vowed to meet annually from that time on. All are young men who have made strides in the particular fields of endeavor they entered, and some come from Pittsburgh and some from other cities.

Foster added: "No matter where we go, we're sticking together. We've vowed to meet once a year. And we've adopted that name!"

Neshannock township firemen were called to the district between Walmo and Highland Heights, several times this morning for grass fires, and this afternoon, called on city firemen for assistance. Many volunteers were on the scene, however, and had the fire under control by the time the city firemen arrived.

City firemen were called to the vicinity of Cascade Park, near the power company sub-station for a grass fire at noon today.

CONTROL BROWN ROT IN PEACH ORCHARD

Rainy weather in late August last year enabled brown rot of peaches to be very destructive. This resulted in an increase in the number of mummies normally formed in orchards. Since much of the brown rot fungus lived over winter on the mummies, growers are urged to take steps to prevent brown rot from getting a start in their orchards this spring.

The principal sources of brown rot infection are: (1) Spores produced in the goblet-shaped, mushroom-like apothecia. These develop on mummified peaches that have lain undisturbed on, or in, the ground during the past one or two winters. (2) Spores produced directly on the surface of mummified peaches hanging on the trees.

These sources of brown rot infection can be eliminated largely by: (1) Removal of all mummified peaches from the trees before the peach blossoms open. (2) Cultivating the peach orchard before the peach blossoms show pink. Cultivation loosens the soil around the mummies and prevents formation of the spore-producing apothecia. The apothecia may discharge brown rot spores from the pink stage of the peach to petal fall.

NOW IS TIME FOR WORK WITH THE ORNAMENTS

Timely operations in the flower garden and with the landscaping of the home grounds are suggested by A. O. Rasmussen, ornamental horticulturist from State college.

He reports that in southeastern Pennsylvania work already has begun in the preparation of flower borders. Owing to difference in climate, this work probably can be delayed for a week or two for central and northern Pennsylvania locations.

If weather conditions permit, and if the ground is in workable condition, annual poppies, eschscholtzia, lavatera, nasturtium, mignonette and centaurea can be planted directly into the garden. These are a few of the flowers which are more readily transplanted. The seed of China asters can be sown in the coldframe and only the transplanting into the garden need be made.

Now is the time to consider the planting of trees, shrubs, and evergreens ordered during the winter months from reliable nurserymen. Many of the plants which need to be transplanted to new locations can be moved at this time, according to Mr. Rasmussen.

All newly planted trees, shrubs, and evergreens can be mulched with peat moss, well-rotted cow manure, or well-decomposed hardwood sawdust. The depth of the mulch may vary from 2 to 4 inches.

Transplant such shrubs and tree shrubs as magnolias, dogwoods, and sweet gum with a ball of earth, Rasmussen says.

There is still an opportunity to select at your reliable nursery many of the plants which are desired for home ornamentation. Consult your nurseryman or florist for full information regarding the character of growth, habit, and general characteristics of the plants before they are purchased.

GROW ADAPTED SOYBEAN FOR PURPOSE DESIRED

Soybean varieties differ in season and adaptation just as widely as corn varieties.

Some are large and late, others are smaller and earlier; some are suitable for hay and others for beans. To avoid disappointment, the grower should select a variety suitable to length of season and adapted to the purpose for which grown.

The black Wilson has long been the standard sort in southern Pennsylvania. It is tall, relatively late, suitable for hay or green feed, but having slender stems it is likely to lodge badly and be hard to handle.

The seed is small so that six pecks to the acre give a good thick stand. As a bean producer the Wilson is not only one of the lowest yielders, but it also is too late to permit the seeding of the stubble to winter grain after combining the seed. In tests at the Pennsylvania State college, Wilson required 146 days to ripen and averaged only 14.6 bushels per acre.

The Kigwa, another small black-seeded bean, is rapidly supplementing the Wilson in the states west of Pennsylvania. It is a week earlier than Wilson, stands up better, holds its leaves longer, and makes about the same tonnage of hay. In the State college tests, Kigwa produced 24.7 bushels an acre, 10 bushels more than Wilson.

The common earlier, yellow-seeded bean in Pennsylvania is the Manch. It is two weeks earlier than the Wilson and an excellent bean producer. While it is too short for hay in the southern counties, it is quite satisfactory for forage in the northern half of the state. Because Manch means almost any fairly early yellow bean, it has been largely replaced in the bean-growing sections of Ohio and the West by the Mandell, Dunfield and Mingo. These are more uniform and generally somewhat earlier. If sown early they can often be combined in the southeastern counties in time to seed the ground to wheat. The Illini is another yellow bean of similar season extensively grown in the corn belt.

Where something about a week earlier than the varieties already mentioned is desired, the Richland is almost as good a yielder on good soil. On poor land it is very short.

The Mandarin is decidedly earlier than the Richland but generally several bushels lower in average yield. The cayuga, a short, black bean, is about as early as Mandarin but not a very heavy seed producer. Where one wishes to produce soybeans for combining a short season or to fit them into the rotation in the central counties by following with winter grain, one of these last three should be suitable. All of these varieties are commonly available.

ESSENTIAL FOOD VALUES ABUNDANT IN VEGETABLES

Some of the most delightful of edibles belong to the vegetable kingdom. Americans today are eating more of this group of food than they did in previous years. This changed attitude for the better has created an era in vegetable fashions and new varieties have been developed with the consumer needs in mind.

All vegetables do not do the same job in the diet. Some, like potatoes, give more energy than others provide for. Others, like tomatoes, are valuable for their vitamins. As a rule, we usually include vegetables in the diet for their vitamins and minerals, and not for the calories they give, says Miss Julia Markie, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. Vitamins and minerals are the food values that are most often lacking in some diets.

Vegetables may well fall into five groups: potatoes, leafy green and yellow, tomatoes and peppers, legumes, and other vegetables.

The potato is relatively high energy food, contains very little protein, but does contribute to the mineral and vitamin content of the diet.

Leafy green and yellow vegetables include a wide variety, such as the many greens, young tender snap beans, broccoli, carrots, rutabagas, and others. These vegetables are crisp, tasty, and colorful and usually are a better source of minerals and vitamins than other vegetables.

As a source of vitamin C, raw leafy vegetables compare favorably with citrus fruits. The younger growing leaves of vegetables are higher in vitamin C than the more mature ones and so we find cabbage included in the diets for its contribution of vitamin C.

Tomatoes rank with the citrus fruits among the highest sources of vitamin C. Green and red peppers, although not so widely used as tomatoes, are rich in both vitamin A and C.

Mature beans and peas are legumes high in protein. However they should not be used as the sole source of protein foods. Legumes are high in calories and make some contributions to the mineral and vitamin content in the diet.

Other vegetables include a wide variety of foods that make valuable contributions to the day's dietary. Among these vegetables are beets, sweet corn, squash, eggplant, parsnips, and onions.

THE SALVATION ARMY

From the very beginning the Salvation Army has been interested in prisoners and court work. Capt. Carl Andraesen of the New Castle Army Corps includes visits to the local jails as a part of his regular work. For many years the army has helped to care for the families of prisoners and has assisted in the rehabilitation of discharged prisoners, and has ministered to the spiritual needs of the men and women in prison.

The records for one year from the army's national headquarters showed 40,900 men and women had been assisted upon their discharge from penal institutions, with 4,500 paroled to Salvation Army officers by prison officials.

From time to time Captain Andraesen receives petitions from persons in jails requesting to be paroled into his custody. He at times receives requests from people in jail who are awaiting parole and desire to obtain some type of employment.

Services are held in the city and county jails at various times for the persons confined there. Captain Andraesen usually conducts these meetings with the aid of other army members in this district.

He distributes helpful and interesting reading material to those in prison and serves to lend a bit of spiritual guidance where needed.

Prison work done by the army is divided into three case types, namely: Incidental service cases—these are cases for which no definite plans are made. Usually they are first offenders asking merely for advice or requiring a very minor service.

Under-Care Cases—In these cases the officers assume care and treatment after proper investigation.

Among the services that may be provided are appeals for modification of sentence, assistance in securing probation or parole, legal aid, service to family while prisoner is in jail, etc.

Cooperative Cases—These involve joint action by the man and the woman worker. In case the prisoner is in jail, the male worker renders service to him in court or in jail and the woman worker concerns herself with the problems of his family.

In all of the jail work done by the Salvation Army, the best of cooperation is offered by the jail authorities.

Individual life naturally proceeds through orderly evolution.

At one period, however, there is a lively, epochal spurt.

This is the adolescent period, between childhood and adulthood. During adolescence there are dangers and pitfalls.

Many intricate changes take place in that period.

Body growth leaps ahead and attains its maximum.

The physique takes on its permanent and characteristic shape.

Sexual development reaches pre-erectile capacity.

The adolescent seeks self-dependence in thought and action.

The matter of a life vocation now becomes an issue.

A whole childhood is an invaluable background.

The adolescent needs help and sympathy for his problems are many.

A year ago we launched a huge construction program to enlarge our plant. This year an even greater program is under way.

Day after day, along the highways and city streets, up on poles, down in manholes and in central offices, thousands of skilled linemen, cable splicers and installers are working away on hundreds of projects.

Right now in Pennsylvania we are spending half a million a week on new construction!

We are making an all-out drive—with manpower, materials and money—to keep telephone service fast, adequate, dependable to speed Pennsylvania's production.

Angel And Kashey Meet Here Tonight

Angel Hopes To Win Fall Or Decision In Third Contest Here

GOLDEN GREEK TO OPPOSE CANADIAN

Abe Kashey, the Assyrian heavyweight, will oppose The Angel in the main bout in tonight's wrestling show in the Arena. It will be the Angel's third appearance here. He believes that his herculean strength, plus an advantage in weight, will prove too much for Kashey, who put on a great exhibition some weeks ago when he met the Bibber McCoy.

Paul Bowser, possibly the biggest wrestling promoter in the United States, is The Angel's manager. He will accompany him to this city tonight. He realizes that in The Angel he possesses a million-dollar magnet.

The Golden Greek, in private life George Macracostas, who also has appeared here, will meet Tiger Tasker of Canada in the semi-final match. The Greek has won twice here. It will be the Canadian's first visit to the city. The Greek usually arrives early for bouts, in order that he can spend some time with boys who have migrated from Greece to our country.

The opening bout will find two Polish wrestlers in action, Zeus Wilcheskie vs. Joe Novak. Wilcheskie played with Boston college football team.

All the grapplers are in the heavyweight class. The doors of the Arena will open at 7:30 p. m. and the first bout will begin at 8:30 p. m. with the Jefferson A. C. as promoters and the state athletic commission in charge of the exhibitions.

Baseball Gets Started Today In Washington

Yankees To Oppose Senators With President Throwing Out First Ball

OTHER TEAMS TO COMMENCE TUESDAY

By LAWTON CARVER (International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 14.—With President Roosevelt, Bob Newsom and Rapid Robert Feller cast in the limelight role, another baseball season was ready to be unfolded today.

The President was to toss out the first ball this afternoon when the New York Yankees oppose the Washington Senators at Washington, in the usual prelude to the regular season. Somebody always meets the Senators under these circumstances, and the President naturally is supposed to start the season for the national pastime.

Tomorrow the league campaigns officially get under way, as follows: National league—St. Louis against the world champion Reds, at Cincinnati; New York at Brooklyn; Boston at Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh at Chicago.

American league—The Detroit Tigers, defending champions, at St. Louis; Chicago at Cleveland; Washington at Boston; Philadelphia at New York.

And where do Feller and Newsom figure in this?

Seek Victories

They figure to the extent they probably will wind up with salaries that will set the pace for pitchers in years to come, but for immediate consideration is the fact that Newsom will open the season for the Tigers against the Browns and Feller will do likewise for the Indians against the White Sox.

To most twirlers this is just another season in which they will win or lose so many games, but to Newsom and Feller it is an opportunity to set an all-time high for pitching. They will try to prove, briefly, that pitching in the old days is no better than it is now.

Yanks and Reds

So here we go on another baseball season with all clubs hopeful and some determined and a few optimistic, but with all save two—one in each league—doomed to utter frustration.

This time everybody will be looking to the New York Yankees, Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers in the American league, and the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals in the National. The winner? Get out your tea leaves. All that anybody can tell now is that a couple of tough races are in prospect, and one of the things we can hope for is that President Roosevelt's aim is good.

If you want to take the odds-maker's word, the Yankees and the Reds, of course, will win the gonfalon in their respective leagues.

West Pittsburgh Will Have Team

West Pittsburgh, former City league champions, are going to make a determined bid this summer for the 1941 championship, it was announced today by Danny DeGenova, one of the backers of the West Pittsburgh team.

There may be a change in the management of the "Gas House" team this summer, owing to DeGenova being pressed for time, but the likeable Danny will still be in the picture, but not full-time, it was understood.

Several new faces will be seen on the West Pittsburgh team this coming summer, but of our Markey brothers, Elssner, "Blacky" Fundoots, the DeMonacos and Aloe will be prominent on the team. Lefty Tonselle and Brakovich will also be available for the hurling staff.

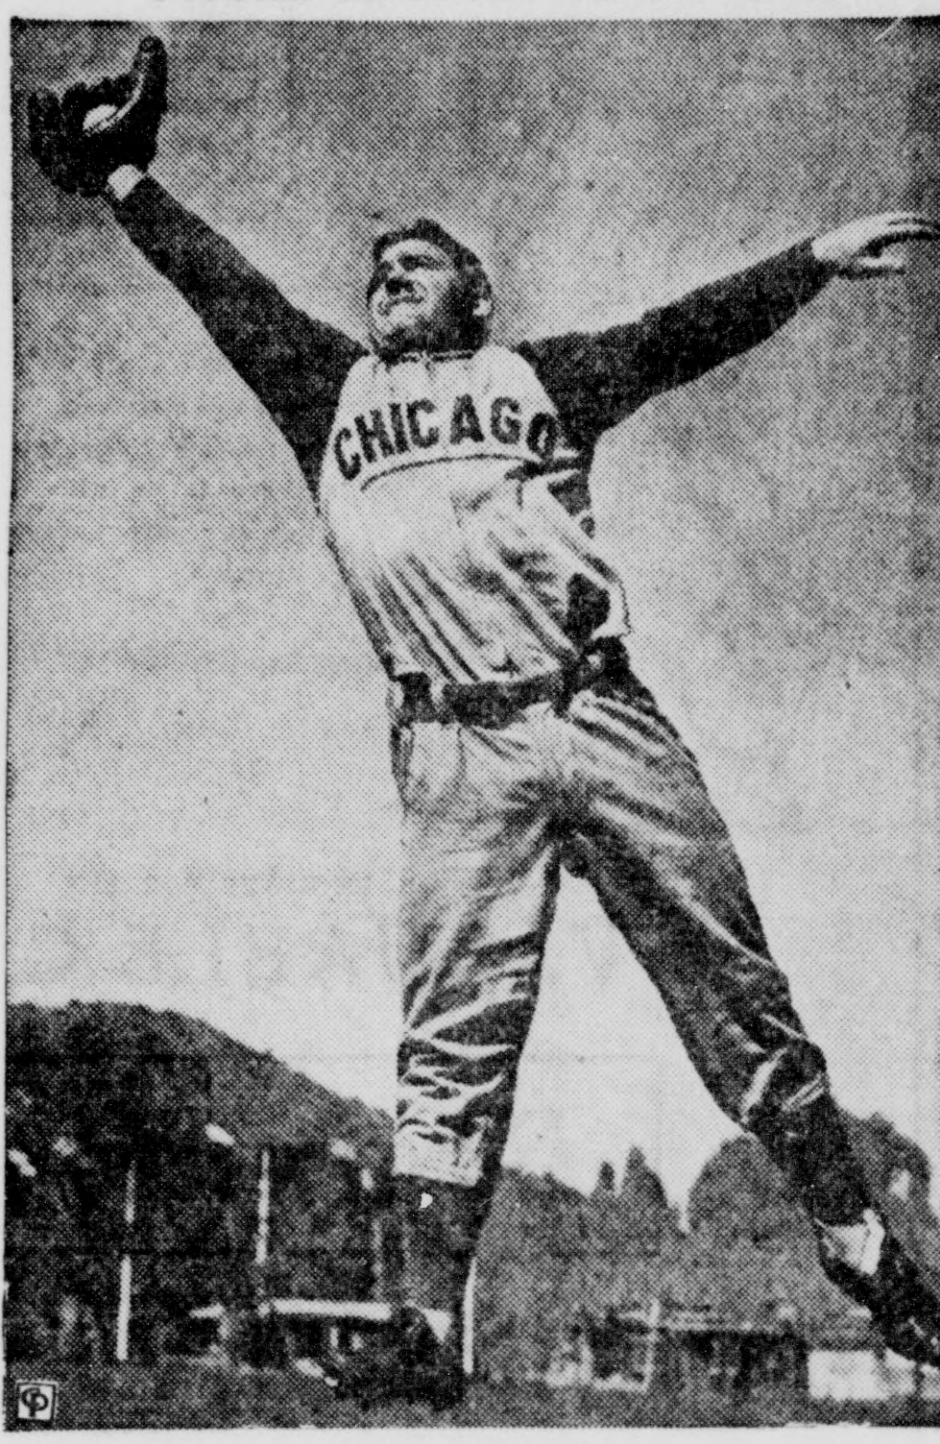

Yellow pine forests of the U. S. contribute 31 per cent and Douglas fir stands supply 26 per cent of the total annual lumber cut, according to the census.

Among the 1940 rookies who face the second year jinx this season is Dominic Dallesandro, the heavy-hitting Coast league performer of 1939 who played the outfield for the Cubs last year. Dallesandro batted only .268 last year. Another coast phenom, Lou Novikoff, will be in the Cub starting lineup this year.

A column concocted after a fatigued scribe wears out his dogs asking Gus Phan to call the turn on the major league races:

New Castle fans, those interviewed along the avenues, rails, beaches, etc., favor Cincinnati and Cleveland to cop the buntings. The Reds, world's champs in 1940, are an overwhelming favorite in local books. A few brave souls foresee a Pittsburgh year. As usual, no one called the Browns, a team that could pull the biggest upset in baseball history. Without further ado, here's what some of the fans think:

ST. LOUIS WOMAN REPLACES BROTHER AS TAXI DRIVER

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS—Mrs. Viola Renz, 40 year old housewife of Affton in St. Louis county, recently became the only woman taxi driver in the city of St. Louis where her brother Arthur le Baube is proprietor of a single cab service.

Mrs. Renz became a taxi chauffeur to take the place of her 23-year-old brother, Wilfred le Baube, when he was drafted for military service.

She relieves her father, Alexander le Baube, who drives the morning shift from 1 to 5 p. m. She then goes home to prepare dinner for her husband who is a truck driver.

Glynn Thomas forecasts Brooklyn and the Yanks; so does Attorney Walt Kieler. Frank Summers says Pittsburgh and Cleveland rate the call. Jimmy Copple and A. Petrucci both predict pennants for Cincinnati and New York. Harry Culbertson, as staunch as you'll find them in the Indian ranks, comes out with "Cleveland, of course, and Cincinnati." Deputy Paul Starke selects Cincinnati and the Yanks.

Lou B. McNamany, one of the most informed local diamond men, sees Cincinnati repeating, followed by Brooklyn and St. Louis; in the American Lou selects Cleveland, the Yanks second and Detroit third. Ted Speck likes Cincinnati and the Yanks. Bernie Hanlon changes the order a bit by calling the St. Louis Cardinals and the Yanks. Attorney Sherman Levine names the Red Sox and Cincinnati.

Several newsmen join in the game. Here's what they say: Bill Erno, "Cleveland and Brooklyn." Ted Bohlicz says Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Fred Budzowski goes along with Cleveland and the Dodgers. Walt Riley picks the same. Russell Rhodes sees an all-Ohio world series. Paul Rhodes chooses Brooklyn and Cleveland. Sam Monico selects Cincy and the Indians. Tom Casino picks the Giants and Yanks. Dick Ayre fancies the Bucs and Cleveland. The Dodgers and Yanks are Bill

Optimistic View On Negotiations For Steel Wage

Murray And Officials Of Carnegie-Illinois To Resume Parley This Afternoon

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 14.—For the third time in as many weeks, another crisis loomed today in contract negotiations between "Big Steel" and the steel workers organizing committee.

C.I.O. President Philip Murray and officials of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, largest subsidiary of United States Steel Corporation, were to meet this afternoon for a lengthy session which will result either in an agreement for some 240,000 "Big Steel" employees or issuance of a strike call for tomorrow midnight.

In an unexpected move this morning, Murray called a conference of representatives of all U. S. Steel S.W.O.C. locals in the country and went into session with them immediately. Union spokesmen refused to state why the meeting had been called but it was believed that the union leader was relating what had been accomplished thus far and what the probable future steps would be.

On the whole, an optimistic outlook was seen, since the negotiators concluded their Saturday session in a cheerful frame of mind and today's meeting was not called for until 2:30 p. m. Unofficial observers took the view that today's meeting would have been called earlier if an agreement was not far off.

"If necessary," a source close to the meetings said, the session will continue through the night in an effort to avoid a strike in the nation's most vital defense industry.

V. F. W. TO MEET

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Approximately 300,000 visitors will take over Philadelphia when the Veterans of Foreign Wars hold their annual encampment in this city this summer.

Although the sessions will not be held until the last week of August, Philadelphia V. F. W. members already are planning an elaborate entertainment program.

Dangerfield To Speak Tomorrow

Internationally Known Critic And Author Will Address Executives Club

GEORGE DANGERFIELD

In the last of the current series of dinner meetings of the Executives Club, George Dangerfield, former literary editor of "Vanity Fair," and internationally known as a critic and author, will be the speaker.

Mr. Dangerfield, who was born in England, has been in this country following his profession since 1934. He states that leadership in the field of creative literature has already passed from Britain to America and this country may soon produce a writer who will take rank with such immortals as Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Milton.

The ladies will be guests at this dinner as they have at most of the meetings during the winter, and a large attendance of the membership is look for.

AN APPRECIATION

Editor New Castle News, New Castle, Penna.

Dear Mr. Conway: Enclosed you will find a copy of the decision made by all the theatre owners of New Castle at their meeting on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock at the Fountain Inn Hotel.

The wish of the theatre owners is that this should be printed in The News and I will be grateful to you if you will publish same.

Yours truly

SPEER MAROUSIS

At a meeting Wednesday evening, held at the Fountain Inn Hotel, attended by the following theatre owners: Speer Marousis, Regent; Dave Victor, Victor; M. D. Cohn, Penn; Maurice Markley, State; Louis Perrotta, Crescent; Sam Lascola, Paramount; the following was adopted:

To: The good people of New Castle and vicinity: We take this means, thru the courtesy of the New Castle News, to express our deep gratitude to all of you who contributed to the success of the Greek War Relief Campaign. Hundreds of you subscribed in cash, many more hundreds attended the relief show, scores of individuals gave their time and talents to make the show a success, everywhere we turned there were fine people ready to help. The extraordinary results show that the people of New Castle stood shoulder to shoulder, in spirit, with the brave defenders of Democracy in war torn Greece, as other countless thousands of good Americans are doing.

To merely say, "We thank you," is inadequate. But to know that you are blessed in the prayers of a thankful people fighting for their way of life, and ours, is a reward that each of you may feel is yours.

SPEER MAROUSIS, Regent.
DAVE VICTOR, Victor.
M. D. COHN, Penn.
LOUIS PERRATTA, Crescent.
MAURICE MARKLEY, State.
SAM LASCOLA, Paramount.
